Fall 2019

Dear Colleagues:

It is that time of year again when faculty members can acknowledge their colleagues by nominating them for one of the Faculty Senate Awards.

Exceptional teaching, scholarship and service have long been recognized as the three primary foundations of an outstanding university. The Senate has established three special annual awards explained in greater detail below, to recognize and foster excellence. Each of the awards has its own criteria, but a common requirement is good character. The awards are presented at a ceremony in the spring semester, followed by a reception.

We encourage you to submit electronic nominations to the Senate for any or all of these distinguished awards. Recipients are selected based on the results of a highly competitive peer-review process. The web addresses below provide nomination criteria and more detailed information regarding the awards.

Complete nomination materials for each of the awards are due to the Faculty Senate office by Wednesday, October 23, 2019 via email at faesen@miami.edu.

The James W. McLamore Outstanding Service Award recognizes service above and beyond the call of duty by a member of the University community. Visit https://fs.miami.edu/_assets/pdf/facultysenate/Documents/Awards/chargeMcLamore.pdf
