III. HELPFUL TIPS AND EXAMPLES

A. General Considerations and Notes:

1. It is also helpful for schools and colleges to consult informally with the General Welfare Committee (GWC) and/or Faculty Senate Officers prior to making a formal presentation.

2. These proposal guidelines are general and illustrative. They may vary depending on the particular type of proposal being submitted and additional information may be requested.

3. The amount of detail required for proposals will depend on the context. For example, more detail is required for a proposal for a new degree than for a major, and less yet is required for a new minor.

4. In addition to Faculty Senate action, some of these actions require the formal approval of the Graduate School Council, Office of Assessment and Accreditation (formerly the Office of Planning, Institutional Research, and Assessment (PIRA)), the Academic Deans Policy Council (ADPC), and/or the Board of Trustees.

5. It is often helpful to the Senate and the proposing unit if, at an early stage, informal consultations are held with the Faculty Senate Office. A pre-proposal discussion with the General Welfare Committee is also helpful, particularly if the proposal is complex or may involve some controversy.

6. Although the Faculty Senate Office requires all proposals to be submitted with a memo or approval from the department chair(s) signifying approval of the faculty of the appropriate department(s) and a memo from the dean(s) signifying approval of the faculty of the appropriate School(s)/College(s), this requirement is not meant to provide the relevant faculty with veto power over proposals. The Faculty Senate Office is simply seeking a letter expressing the relevant faculty’s views on the proposals.

7. While not a literal requirement, the Senate strongly prefers to see letters of support from Deans, Department Chairs, or heads of other units that might be affected. This does not mean that other units have a veto over new units or programs. Nevertheless, avoiding pointless overlap and confusing unit and program names is a consistent Senate concern, which is largely alleviated by such support letters.

8. When a proposal is a major one, it is often helpful, particularly for a presentation to the Senate itself, if the presenters are the Dean and the most directly involved faculty member.

9. If CVs are included in a proposal, please submit these as a separate document.
